Looking for the best and most up to date Farmbrite mobile experience? You no longer need to download an app from the store to get it! Check out our article about Accessing Farmbrite on a Mobile Device to learn more about how you can take Farmbrite into the field.

The native mobile app is a place where you and your farmhands can access your data through your phones and mobile devices. It is available to all paid accounts. You can download the app from the app store on your phone. It was designed to give you quick access to your livestock and crop notes and high level details. You can use this out in the field or wherever you are without the need to access the internet or cellular service. When you get back to a place with internet your notes, completed tasks, etc will sync to your account. This will bring all your data up to date.

At this time not all information is available on the native mobile app. To access reports, charts, weather and more detailed information you must log into your mobile enabled version on your phone or tablet or into your desktop computer.

The following areas are available: (Depending on your subscription):

Tasks, schedule, livestock, fields & Crops, equipment, accounting (Only Admin users see this information), contacts, QR scanner

This version is slightly different than the desktop version that you might see on your computer.
